How To Persuade Your Partner To Use A Condom

There are many reasons to use condoms when having sex.
You could go through these reasons with your partner and see what she/he thinks.

EXCUSE	ANSWER
Don't you trust (love) me?	Trust isn't the point, people can have infections without realizing it and I would rather be safe than sorry.
It doesn't feel as good with a condom.	I'll feel more relaxed. If I am more relaxed, I can make it feel better for you.
I don't stay hard when I put on a condom.	I'll help you put it on, that will help you keep it hard.
I am afraid to ask him to use a condom. He will think I don't trust him.	If you can't ask him, you probably don't trust him.
I can't feel a thing when I wear a condom.	Maybe that way you'll last even longer and that will make up for it.
I don't have a condom with me.	I do (be sure to keep a supply of condoms with you).
It's up to him ... it's his decision.	It's your health. It is your decision too!
I'm on the pill, you don't need a condom.	I'd like to use it anyway. It will help to protect us from infections that we may not realize we have.
Putting it on interrupts everything.	Not if I help put it on.
I guess you don't really love me.	I do, but I am not risking my future to prove it.
I will pull out in time.	Women can get pregnant and get STIs from pre-ejaculate.
But I love you.	Then you'll help us to protect ourselves.
Just this once.	Once is all it takes to get an infection or to get pregnant.
