This project was truly a collaborative effort. A countless number of agencies, organizations and individuals at the state and local level have contributed to North Carolina's Covering Kids project, directly and indirectly. We wish that we could name each of them here. The North Carolina Foundation for Advanced Health Programs wishes to thank these unsung heroes for their energy, creativity, in-kind and financial support, and most importantly, their unwavering commitment to children and families in our state.

We want to express our gratitude to the heads of the Pilot County lead agencies, key administrators and those who staffed the local efforts and truly "made it happen." We applaud them for their dedication, persistence and willingness to share their challenges as well as their successes. In Buncombe County: Calvin E. Underwood, Jr., Amanda L. Stone, Tim Rhodes, Jim Holland, Harriett Marlor, and Linda Cruz. In Cabarrus County: Jim Cook, James Polk, Trish Baker, Luis Tejera, Liz Lineberry, Kenya Currie and Wendy Hartsell. In Edgecombe County: Hobert Freeman, Clifton Hickman, Nancy Cochran, Tawana White, and Cornelia McGee. In Forsyth County: Ann Hamilton, Dave Bradshaw, Brenda Evans, Cindy Tomlinson, Dawn Hairston, and Paula Belton. In Guilford County: Bob Newton, Robin Lane, and Janice Cardin.

We wish to extend a special note of thanks to the following individuals for their assistance and support at the state level. (Note: Some of these individuals have since moved to other organizations or agencies.) From North Carolina's Department of Health and Human Services: Tom Vitaglione, Carolyn Sexton, Carol Tant, June Milby, Barbara Brooks, Gustavo Fernandez, Rebecca Greenleaf-Bailey, Lynda Dixon, Bronwyn Glenn, Marjorie Morris, Jon York, Renee Boston, Gale Hoots, Ann Whitley, Michael Winfield, Joyce Fritts, Stephanie Triantafillou, Mercedes Hernandez-Pelletier, Michael Sanderson, Parcheul Harris, Susan Baird, Judy Howell and Chris Youngblood. From the NC Healthy Start Foundation: Janice Freedman and Robin Ziman. From the NC Teachers' and State Employees' Comprehensive Major Medical Plan: Paul Sebo. From the Department of Public Instruction: John Murphy and Paula Hudson Collins. From the Health Education Foundation/Area L AHEC: Alice Schenall. From the North Carolina Primary Health Care Association: Ben Money. From BlueCross and BlueShield of North Carolina: Connie Williams and Brenda Cash. From Epley Associates: Mike Herman, Richard Wright, Joseph Gaitens, Francie Sanderson, and David Giles. We also wish to thank Wally Brown, Steve Shore and the members of the Health Choice Provider Task Force who were actively involved in our project. Other individuals who contributed in various and critical ways were Jane Foy, Marian Earls, Allen Dobson, Nolo Martinez, Meg Booth, Ted Parrish, Deborah Bosley and Diane Bloom.

We are grateful to The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for their leadership and financial support and The Southern Institute on Children and Families and their consultants for their direction and assistance.
